THE JOURNEY

Eight days. Highlands, crater and endless plains.

Eight days across Tanzania's Northern Circuit, hosted by the Queen of East Africa team. A night in Arusha, then overland in a private 4x4 through Tarangire's baobab country, up into the Ngorongoro highlands, down onto the crater floor and out across the Serengeti to the Western Corridor.

The road is deliberate. You feel the distances, the climb in altitude and the rhythm of a real safari day. On the last morning a light aircraft lifts you out of the Serengeti, so no one faces the long drive back.

Between game drives, walk through the hotels, lodges and camps your clients may one day call home — and leave knowing which one suits which traveller.

Spend the morning exploring the crater floor, where open grasslands, acacia woodland, freshwater pools and seasonal wetlands support an extraordinary concentration of wildlife.

Look out for lions, elephants, buffalo, zebras, wildebeest, hyenas and hippos, with the possibility of encountering the endangered black rhinoceros.

Enjoy a picnic lunch in a designated area before continuing your game drive, making the most of your time inside this remarkable natural sanctuary.

In the afternoon, ascend to the crater rim.

Return to Ngorongoro Lion's Paw or a similar luxury tented camp for dinner and your second overnight stay.

05 KARATU · NGORONGORO · CENTRAL SERENGETI

The Road to the Endless Plains.

Where the highlands end and the Serengeti begins.

After breakfast, leave Ngorongoro Lion's Paw for a carefully planned selection of Karatu and crater-rim lodge inspections, then travel west through the Ngorongoro Conservation Area towards Serengeti National Park.

The cool highlands gradually give way to open grasslands, scattered acacia trees and the vast plains for which the Serengeti is celebrated.

This is far more than a transfer. The changing landscapes are part of the safari, offering opportunities to observe wildlife and understand why the journey between Ngorongoro and Serengeti is one of Tanzania's most memorable drives.

Enter Serengeti National Park and continue towards the Seronera region of Central Serengeti, known for its exceptional year-round wildlife and resident predators.

Enjoy a picnic lunch along the way before continuing your afternoon game drive. Look out for lions, leopards, cheetahs, elephants, giraffes, buffalo and plains game.

Continue to Karibu Serengeti Sametu Camp or similar, arriving in time to settle in before dinner and your first overnight stay.

The Seronera region supports an extraordinary concentration of resident wildlife, particularly lions, leopards and cheetahs. Spend the morning exploring with your guide before continuing westwards.

As the journey unfolds, the landscape changes from open grasslands to wooded valleys, river systems and rolling plains.

Between May and mid-July, the Western Corridor becomes an important region along the Great Migration's seasonal route. Depending on rainfall and herd movements, wildebeest and zebra may be travelling through the area towards the Grumeti River.

Enjoy lunch along the way and continue your game drive towards Western Serengeti.

Continue to Kirawira Serena Camp or similar for dinner and overnight.

> IN THE FIELD
>
> The Western Corridor offers an important lesson in seasonal safari planning. Migration movements are influenced by rainfall, and understanding the region firsthand helps advisors recommend the right location and accommodation for clients travelling between May and July.

IMPORTANT FAM DETAILS

Before you apply.

Who is the Tanzania FAM for?

Travel advisors who sell, or plan to sell, East Africa and want first-hand knowledge of Tanzania's Northern Circuit — its parks, its distances and its finest accommodation.

Does reserving guarantee my place?

Not immediately. Your reservation is held as Pending Approval while Queen verifies eligibility and availability. We then send your agreement and a secure deposit link, and your place is confirmed once both are complete.

Are there any internal flights?

One. Every leg from Arusha to the Serengeti is by road. On Day 08 a scheduled flight takes you from a Western Serengeti airstrip to Arusha Airport, landing around midday, then you transfer by road to Kilimanjaro International — about an hour — for your onward departure. Plan your international flight for late afternoon or later.

Which lodges and camps will we inspect?

Luxury and ultra-luxury properties only, from the shortlists on this page — around three to five in each area: Arusha, Tarangire, Karatu and Ngorongoro, and the Serengeti. The final selection depends on each property's availability on the day and, in the Serengeti, on where the wildlife is.

Why travel overland rather than fly between parks?

So you experience the routing, landscapes, distances and transitions your clients will. It lets you advise them honestly on where driving works well and where a flight is the better choice.

Is there a luggage limit?

Yes. Internal flights take soft-sided luggage only, 15 kg per person including hand luggage. Queen confirms the allowance for your departure before you travel.

Is the hot-air balloon safari included?

No. Where available, a dawn hot-air balloon safari can be arranged as an optional experience at US$600 per person.

Do I need a visa for Tanzania?

Most travellers do. The Tanzania visa is US$100 for United States passport holders and US$50 for European Union passport holders, obtained through Tanzania's official immigration channels before travel. Queen provides pre-departure guidance, but each advisor is responsible for meeting the entry requirements for their nationality.

Do I need a yellow fever vaccination?

Yellow fever vaccination is recommended for travel in East Africa, and a certificate may be required depending on your origin and transit route. Please consult a travel healthcare provider well before departure — a certificate becomes valid ten days after vaccination.

Do I need travel insurance?

Yes, two kinds. Inbound travel insurance is mandatory for Tanzania and is not included in the FAM rate — US$44 per person for a policy valid 90 days. Comprehensive travel insurance covering cancellation, interruption, medical treatment and baggage is also required.

What should I pack?

Neutral, layerable clothing, a warm jacket for the cold evenings on the Ngorongoro rim, sun protection, comfortable walking shoes, any medication you need and a good pair of binoculars — all in a soft-sided bag. A packing guide is provided before departure.
